CLAIMS NEW DEAL, A FAILURE, WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE

Charles Buckius, of State Highway Dep't, Tells of Democratic Expenditures

ADDRESS AT PERKASIE

Mrs. Alfred A. Crooks Also Speaks To County Council of Republican Women

PERKASIE, Mar. 29.—The privilege of hearing Mrs. Alfred A. Crooks, prominent Philadelphia club-woman, and Charles Buckius, assistant secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, was accorded 125 members of Bucks County Council of Republican Women, when they met in Fraternity Temple, yesterday.

Mrs. John W. Cooper, Pineville, council president, spoke on "Citizenship." "The best training school for good citizenship," she informed, "is in the home. Children emulate their parents and their attitudes toward laws. They also emulate their parents' attempts to evade laws. Parents do not obey the laws that are not to their particular liking, and show disregard to those that interfere with their personal habits." She advised the adults to have a deeper regard for law, and thus become a great force for good in citizenship training.

Mr. Buckius, in his enthusiastic message, told of the task of "selling" the Republican "bill of goods" to the electorate in the coming Presidential campaign. "The campaign is nothing more than a salesmanship contest, where each competitor has a 'bill of goods' to sell the public, and to put it across successfully, and win, he must know his product and its quality and the advantages it offers over his competitor's 'bill of goods'."

"If the Republicans will compare their 'bill of goods' over that of the New Deal, they will find they have the most advantageous talking point. The New Deal promised to care for the unemployed situation, but right now we have 10 million unemployed, two million less being employed in 1939 than in 1929, with but eight per cent increase in population."

"The Federal government takes in six billion dollars a year and spends nine billion dollars. The debt is rapidly approaching the 45 billion dollar mark, with none of our major problems such as the farm situation and unemployment solved."

"The New Deal admits that its own economy program has been a complete failure, but it wants a chance in 1940 to try it over again."

"Take Pennsylvania for instance: In 1932, 12 million dollars were spent for relief; in 1936, it mounted to 267 million; in 1939, to 327 million. Under the New Deal we spend and become poorer and poorer."

In regard to the State Highway Department, Mr. Buckius had this to say: "For overhead and operating expenses the Democrats spent $34,985,000 from March, 1938, to March, 1939. In the James administration from March, 1939, to March, 1940, there was spent only $20,970,000, a saving of 40 per cent under a business administration. Instead of a political administration. This is a daily saving for the State of $38,000."

"The New Deal of Pennsylvania spent in the highway department $5,000,000 for rented equipment. With this enormous expenditure it continued on Page Four

HEAD OF HUGE INDUSTRY WILL LIVE IN BUCKS CO.

William A. McCain Retiring From Post With Quartermaster's Depot, Phila.

TO RESIDE ON FARM

Bucks County is to acquire a new resident next week, in the person of William A. McCain, who is retiring from his post as head of the Quartermaster's Depot, Philadelphia. Mr. McCain will reside on his farm, which includes about 75 acres, in Doylestown township.

Nearly two years ago, Mr. McCain acquired the property from Eli H. Fell. Technically, Colonel McCain will remain in charge of the Quartermaster's Depot till July 31, but an accumulation of unused leaves of absence will make his retirement actually effective on the earlier date.

Technically, too, of course, the mammoth manufacturing plant at 21st and Johnson streets, is a national industry, in that it supplies uniforms for the whole U. S. Army, the National Guard and the Civilian Conservation Corps. But its more than 3,000 employees are all civilians and all from the Philadelphia area.

Colonel McCain, born in Carroll county, Mo., not quite 62 years ago, has been head of the depot since July 6, 1934. Prior to that he was director of the Army Industrial College at Washington.

He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1902, in time to serve in the Philippines during the Moro insurrection. In the World War he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his service as ordnance officer of the 5th Army Corps in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives.

Tests Prove Bristol Can Get Televised Pictures

Results of tests made yesterday by representatives of the RCA Co., at Spencer's Furniture Store, indicated definitely that Bristol is within good reception distance of television pictures coming from New York City.

The test equipment set up at Spencer's yesterday successfully drew in televised pictures coming from New York. The pictures were sharp and clear. The radio technicians making the test stated that anyone in Bristol or its vicinity using RCA television sets are assured of getting good results.

The tests showed that the antenna for receiving must be at least 50 feet above the ground. This is due to the fact that Bristol is so level and so near sea level. One of the very best spots in this section for perfect reception is at nearby Torresdale, because this section is elevated, setting on a bluff. The high antenna will overcome this difficulty in this section, it was stated.

One of the televised pictures, accompanied by sound, yesterday, was a complete cartoon. Later on a complete Wild-West movie thriller was shown.

Reception Tendered To The Rev. Harkness and Family

HULMEVILLE, Mar. 29.—In honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Wilmer E. Harkness, and daughters, the Misses Harkness, a reception was arranged last evening by members of Neshamony Methodist Church.

One hundred extended greetings to the recently-appointed pastor and his family, following a program in the church auditorium. Refreshments were then served in Epworth Hall.

Samuel J. Hillek, in announcing the program, called upon the Rev. Louis E. Fifer, vicar of Grace Episcopal Church; and the Rev. Francis E. Thomas, Yardley, who represented the Lower Bucks County Methodist Ministerium. The Rev. Fifer, after welcoming the Rev. Harkness and family to this community, reminded members of the congregation of their duty toward the pastor, stressing the need of all "getting in the Christian groove" to work with the leader. The Rev. Thomas expressed a welcome from members of the Ministerium, and told of the joy on the part of a pastor and people as they follow in the way of God, working out His plan together. He urged the people to "Walk in step with your pastor."

Other program numbers were inclusive of: Cornet solo, "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses," Kimbel Faust, with Mrs. Samuel K. Faust as accompanist; vocal trio, "In the Garden," Helen Thompson, Joan Phillips and Ann Spicer, with Mrs. Harold Daseburg accompanying; cornet selections, "He Lives on High" and "The Old Rugged Cross," Kimbel Faust, Charles Martindell, Donald Haefner; readings "Ain't" and "When the Pastor Comes to Tea," Miss Elma E. Haefner; welcome by president of the Epworth League, Kenneth Conly; vocal solo, Charles Martindell, with Miss Marie Hanson at the piano.

The Rev. Harkness expressed his pleasure in being assigned to Hulmeville church, then mentioned the responsibility that the pastor and people share together. The need for co-operation between the leader and the congregation was also stressed. To Mrs. Harkness was a bouquet of mixed flowers presented by Samuel K. Faust, on behalf of the church.

PREACHER EXECUTED

TRENTON, N. J., Mar. 29.—(INS)—A grave beside that of his daughter, Wanda, 18, for whose murder he was executed last night in the electric chair, today awaited the body of the Rev. Walter Dworecki, 49, a Polish evangelist. Buoyed up by hours of praying, Dworecki went calmly to his death at 8:04 last night mumbled passages from the Scriptures. He was the first clergyman executed in New Jersey since 1907 when the electric chair came into use. Dworecki was convicted of arranging for the murder of Wanda to collect between $5,000 and $6,000 insurance on her life. Peter Schewchuck, 21, a circus roustabout who, police charge, did the actual strangling for the promise of a $100 fee on which he received only 50 cents, is awaiting trial.

Explains Discrepancies

New York, Mar. 29.—Discrepancies between German and Allied claims regarding military engagements can be explained by the alleged court martial and suicide of a British aviator, accused of giving forth reports of their successes, it was asserted today in a German broadcast intercepted by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The broadcast, directed to "American listeners," cited what it said was an article in the London Daily Mail, regarding the British aviator. In part the German broadcast said:

"The London Daily Mail printed the sensational report today that a British flight commander, Richard Graham Bromfield, committed suicide in his cell while awaiting the verdict of his court martial."

Flight commander Bromfield was arrested a short time ago charged with having submitted to the air ministry false reports concerning alleged successes scored in the Bay of Helgoland raid against German war planes.

"The report submitted to his superiors after returning from the Bay of Helgoland, boasted of successes that had never taken place, of destroying German planes that had never flown out, and of bombing achievements which were products of imagination."

"Following the trial of the court martial, Flight Commander Bromfield killed himself in his cell by taking poison," the broadcast said.

Officials here pointed out that George had no criminal record so far, but that a charge of beating a girl was pending against him.

MORRISVILLE DOCTOR HELD UP AND ROBBED BY TWO ARMED THUGS

Dr. Theodore Cohen Went In Response To A Fake Phone Call

ROBBED OF $75

Bandits Got Into Auto and Drove Physician For About One Block.

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 29.—A well known physician was held-up at the point of a gun and robbed last night while answering what proved to be a "fake" telephone call. The victim of the hold-up was Dr. Theodore Cohen, 219 Washington street who was robbed by two armed bandits of $75.

Dr. Cohen, at about 11 o'clock, last night, answered a telephone call and in response went to a house on Harrison avenue in the Manor Park section of this borough. The section is very dark and not heavily traveled.

The physician stepped from his car and was about to go up the steps leading to the front porch when two bandits walked out from alongside of the house. One of the thugs stuck a gun in the physician's side and ordered him back into the car.

One of the robbers got behind the wheel while the other sat beside the doctor on the rear seat. They drove him to Baker avenue, about a block away, where they stole $75 from his pocket. After taking the keys from the physician's car, they jumped into their waiting car and drove hurriedly out onto the Bristol Pike and headed toward Philadelphia.

Dr. Cohen notified Patrolman Joseph Lebeberg, who hurried to the scene to make a search. The State Highway Patrol was also notified.

Filled Cave Instead of Well With Ashes

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 29.—Was Janitor Harvey Leatherman's face red yesterday when the veteran member of the housekeeping staff of the Bucks county court house and other affiliated buildings, talked with his "boss," President Judge Hiram H. Keller, of the county courts.

Leatherman admits that it was his one big embarrassing moment when the Judge told him to go outside and look in an old cave in back of the Jurist's offices in the rear of the Keller Building, a cave which the Judge had preserved several years ago.

To Leatherman's amazement he found that he had been dumping ashes into the cave thinking all the time that it was a dry well that Judge Keller wanted filled up.

Leatherman had a small contraption made to place in the small opening leading to what he thought was a dry well, and through this vent were poured the ashes from the Keller Building furnaces for the past six months. The vent to the dry well was several feet away.

Yesterday Judge Keller was inspecting his property and by chance took a look in the old cave which has nice cemented walls and was in first class condition. The only difference now is that there are tons of ashes in the cave and the dry well nearby, is still a dangerous and undesirable drywell.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

The Primary Bunk

Washington, Mar. 28.

NEXT WEEK

Presidential primaries will be held in Wisconsin and the following week in Illinois. In both these States victories for Roosevelt - pledged delegates are foregone conclusions. Vice-President Garner will be swamped and the White House propagandists are all set to shout that this is so great a demonstration of the popular desire to continue Mr. Roosevelt in the White House that his renomination is inevitable.

IT will be complete bunk and only the politically boobish will swallow it. For purposes of clarity it seems worthwhile to present here the elemental facts about primary elections, which most voters know but are prone to forget. In the first place, the notion that in the primaries the untrammelled preference of the majority of party voters for party candidates is expressed is just not so. That is the theory. That is the way the direct primaries are supposed to operate, but that is not the way they do operate. And the reasons are perfectly clear.

THE chief one, of course, is that only in the most exceptional cases does a majority of the voters participate in the primary. There never has been a primary where three-fourths of the voters qualified to vote have voted. In most primaries the proportion of qualified voters who participate is often ridiculously small—sometimes as low as a fortieth, frequently not more than a twentieth; only in very exciting and strenuously fought campaigns more than a half.

LOOK OUT, BRAZIL!

Brazil is anxious to have American farmers migrate to that country, according to Jose Oliveira Marques, head of the land colonization department of the Brazilian agriculture ministry. He says Brazil knows that United States' farmers are specialists, likely to introduce modern farming methods. Brazil has been negotiating for the entry of 200,000 American farmers, preferably grain growers.

That Brazil needs grain farmers cannot be disputed. That country has plenty of wheat lands, but not many acres are used for wheat growing. Yet where experiments have been tried on the Brazilian uplands, wheat growing has proved successful. An official investigation made in 1916 showed that pure wheat bread is a thing practically unknown in Brazil, where baker adulterate the wheat flour with mandioca, breadfruit flour or corn meal. Were the law to insist on the bakers selling pure wheat flour bread, Brazil would have to grow to supply her own needs, twenty times as much wheat as she now produces, which in the latest year for which figures are available amounted to only 115,000 metric tons.

But before accepting 200,000 efficient American grain farmers, Brazil ought to confer with Henry A. Wallace, farmer general of the revenue in the United States, which pays out a billion dollars yearly in farm aid. American farmers, with their capacity for high production which has brought many a headache over surpluses to the United States government, would step up Brazilian wheat production in a short time, giving the government a good argument for regulating the baking industry. Brazil only a few years ago was burning its surplus coffee, if it should admit 200,000 ambitious American grain growers with their up-to-date machinery, the Brazilian populace may ultimately choke in the smoke of burning wheat.

FEARS OF YOUTH

According to older folk, young people are always happy and care free. They have the marvelous gift of youth, and under ordinary conditions have many years of health and activity to look forward to. They are not supposed to be troubled by anxious fears for the future, or premonitions of the final end of life. In a poem by Theresa Helburn: "I can see her eyes grey with alarm," it reads. In imaginative language it pictures the "hooded figure" as clutching at the arm of youth, expressing the thought that young people do worry about their future prospects.

Perhaps this is not surprising. When young people formerly went out into the world, they were practically sure of finding work at once. But many recent graduates cannot find work and are still idle. They have ambition for success and achievement, but what can they do if no one will hire them? But youth has one great advantage that age does not. Youth rebounds quickly from a mood of discouragement.

American youth should not take its fears too seriously. Its power for achievement was never greater. Ways will be found for that power to express itself. If youth does not find its opportunity in one direction it will find it in some other.

of this than the Maryland Senatorial primaries of 1935 in which the President attempted to "purge" Mr. Tydings and nominate his personal choice, Mr. Lewis. Mr. Roosevelt personally came into the State and appealed for his candidacy. The whole of Maryland was deeply stirred. The Baltimore Sun, for weeks, feeling ran high and the nation as a whole was interested. Yet Mr. Tydings and Mr. Lewis combined polled 314,153 votes out of a total Democratic registration of 542,617. In other words, 228,459 Democrats qualified to vote did not vote and the total vote polled was only 42,850 more than 50 per cent.

IF, under such conditions but little more than half the party voters came out, it is easy to understand why in less stirring struggles the number shrinks to a small fraction of the whole. In any normal contest the primary vote will be well under a fourth—rarely over a fifth—and that is why, except in infrequent instances, the primaries no longer are regarded as a real expression of the party will but as a business, essential to our form of party government, but conducted and controlled by the politicians rather than the people.

OBVIOUSLY, the smaller the vote the more complete the machine control, but even when the vote approaches fifty per cent., which is not often, it still controls. Take, for example, a normal city precinct—averaging, say, 600 voters, 350 of whom are registered Democrats qualified to vote in the primary. But only 175 do vote. The machine starts off with the Democratic judges and clerks of election; the family from which the polling place is rented; the watchers and the challengers named by the precinct executive; the precinct executive himself and the various party jobholders living in the precinct—in these days, so far as the Democrats are concerned, more than ever dreamed of before. There are, in addition, the people on relief and those who hope, through precinct influence, to get on.

NOW ALL of these vote in the primaries. That's their business and they attend to it. Among them and their families, in any normal precinct under any reasonably competent executive, they will account for more than 90 votes, which is more than a majority even when fifty per cent. of the qualified voters vote. When, as in most cases, less than that vote, machine control is a cinch. The precinct executive does not then have to exert himself or bother about putting on the paid watchers and runners. All these facts are well known, but frequently forgotten. They are the reason the power of the machine is so much greater in the primaries than in the general election, where the proportion of voters is much larger and competing machines tend to nullify each other. In the primaries, it is not only that the vote is small but the organization has no competition. Usually it is a walkover.

THAT is the way it will be, for example, in Illinois, where Mr. Roosevelt's delegates are backed by the powerful Kelly-Nash-Horner machine, which controls the Federal and State as well as city patronage. In that State Mr. Garner has no organization, no jobholders, no money and very little personal following. Against this huge machine his, of course, is a hopeless fight. Under such circumstances it will not be significant that the Roosevelt delegates will, by a big margin over the Garner delegates. What will be significant is if under these conditions Mr. Garner polls any considerable number of votes at all.

BECAUSE the Democrats who turn out in Illinois and other States to vote for Mr. Garner where he is pitted against the machine-supported Roosevelt will turn out not with any hope of success for their candidate but for one purpose only—to register disapproval of the third-term idea. That's why Mr. Garner is in the fight. He can't hope to compete in these machine-controlled primaries, but he can hope to get a vote that will drive home the futility of the third-term attempt. By reason of the stay-at-home voters, the real Democratic resentment cannot be fully gauged by those who come out to vote against him in the primaries. But they may be numerous enough to constitute a serviceable yardstick. It at least is logical to believe that Democrats who take the trouble to come out in a hopeless primary to vote against Mr. Roosevelt as the nominee would carry their resentment into the general election should he become the nominee.

Langhorne Physician Speaks of Pneumonia

pointed out that the fatal cases have been cut down from 30 per cent to 10 per cent.
"It is also a known fact," the speaker declared, "that there are carriers for pneumonia that may not be subject to it themselves.
"Pneumonia is especially prevalent in babies," Dr. Macknall said. "More than 62 per cent of the cases occur in babies in the first year; and 28 per cent in the second year. It decreases from then on up to the fifteenth year and after that it is not very common."
"Where serum is administered the first day the mortality rate for pneumonia is very low, being only about 5 per cent. That is the reason that immediate medical attention should be given."

The talk, which was very much enjoyed by the members, was followed by an open forum, during which the speaker answered many questions. Among the guests present yesterday was Mrs. Minerva Epstein, representing the Division of Health Education. President Thomas R. James was in charge of the meeting.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

Margaret Sullivan, James Stewart and the famed "Ernst Lubitsch touch" contribute equal shares to one of the most delightful entertainments ever filmed, "The Shop Around the Corner," which received an enthusiastic audience reception when it opened last night at the Grand Theatre.

That Lubitsch is the master of comedy in all its various phases, whether of satire as he so ably demonstrated with his direction of Greta Garbo in "Ninotchka," or of human, gentle humor in the everyday lives of everyday people, has been proven for all to see in this new picture.

BRISTOL THEATRE

The screen has found time to glorify the army, navy, racket busters, fire-fighters and police, but until now has neglected a group of men who brave death every time they go out on an assignment and battle a thousand terrors on the streets of every big city!

But the story of these fearless, fighting heroes has finally been told in "Emergency Squad," which Paramount will present today at the Bristol Theatre, with a cast topped by Louise Campbell, William Henry Lonard Denning and Robert Paige.
"Murder on the Yukon," new Rerun of the Royal Mounted thriller, is now at the Bristol Theatre.

RITZ THEATRE

Lorraine Day and Helen Gilbert are sweetheart of Lew Ayres and his "mysterious patient" respectively in "The Secret of Dr. Kildare," coming today to the Ritz Theatre.

Both are surprise "discoveries." Miss Day, who was born at Roosevelt, Utah, started in a Little Theatre at Long Beach, was seen by a studio scout, and made her debut in "Sergeant Madden." Blonde Helen Gilbert graduated from the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia to become a concert cellist.

Miss Louise Swain Landreth Will Be Wed To Rev. Amerman

An early Spring nuptial ceremony in St. James' Episcopal Church, this afternoon, at half after four o'clock, will attract many residents of Bristol, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York, and other cities. The bride is Miss Louise Swain Landreth, who will become the wife of the Rev. Lockhart Amerman, of Sewickley.

Miss Landreth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Phillips Landreth, of Pine Grove, and the groom, who is rector of the Sewickley Presbyterian Church, is the son of Mrs. William L. Amerman, Sewickley.

The officiating clergyman is the Rev. George E. Boswell, rector of St. James' Church; and serving as organist will be Harry Gilbert, New York City. Organ recital offerings of Mr. Gilbert previous to the ceremony will be inclusive of "O Perfect Love", and a group of Scottish airs.

In the edifice palms have been grouped, interspersed with white daisies and lilies.

The bride, to be given in marriage by her father, will be attended by a maid of honor and three bridesmaids. The maid of honor is Miss Helen Bowie, Baltimore, Md.; and the trio of bridesmaids includes Mrs. William C. Doak and Miss Emily Landreth, Bristol, cousins of the bride; and Miss Elizabeth Horan, Torresdale.

The groomsmen is the Rev. Daniel E. Weeks, Renovo; and usher: the Rev. Samuel Allison, Ben Avon; the Rev. George B. Edgar, Elkins Park; Dr. John Cannon, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Symington P. Landreth, Jr., of Philadelphia, brother of the bride; and the Rev. John Golding, Martha's Vineyard Mass.

Chosen by the bride for her wedding gown is ivory satin cut on Princess lines, with high neck-line, and long sleeves. The veil of Brussels lace is arranged halo style, and her cascade bouquet will be formed of white flowers—lilies, iris, valley lilies and heather.

The four attendants of the bride will be attired in gowns of pale green taffeta, patterned with tight bodices which button down the front to the waist-line; featuring Peter Pan collars, sleeves of elbow length, and full-cut floor length skirts. The leghorn hat to be worn by the maid of honor is trimmed with narrow strands of yellow velvet ribbon which also form streamers; and she will carry an arm bouquet of white lilies and yellow tulips. The bridesmaids' leghorn hats have trim of narrow green velvet ribbon with streamers; and each will carry white lilies and white tulips.

A small reception will follow the ceremony, at the residence of the bride's parents, the Rev. Amerman and his bride leaving during the evening for a journey to the South. The bride's travelling costume is a three-piece blue wool suit, with accessories of navy tone. Upon their return they will take up residence in Sewickley.

Mrs. Amerman, mother of the groom, will wear a gown of black velvet, a black hat, and a corsage of white heather and stephanotis. Mrs. Landreth, the bride's mother has chosen a creation of Alice blue chiffon and lace; a hat of black straw with trim of blue flowers; and a corsage of orchids.

The bride is a graduate of the Agnes Irwin School, Philadelphia; and of Bryn Mawr College. The groom is a graduate of Haverford College, and of Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J.; and also attended the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Today's Quiet Moment

Heavenly Father, visit us today. Soothe and quicken us. Refresh our jaded faith. Awaken us to dread sin and folly. Arouse us to filial loyalty, to tender sympathy, to noble aims and lofty purpose. May the song in our souls be the utterance of glad and honest hearts. Amen.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE AT MEETING DISCUSSES PLANS

Plans for the forthcoming season were discussed at a meeting of the Bristol Suburban League held last night in the St. Ann's A. A. meeting room. Four teams were represented: Croydon Y. M. A., Voltz-Texaco, King A. A. of Morrisville, and the Colonials of Cornwallis. Fifth Ward Sporting Club sent representatives but they are uncertain as to whether they will join the circuit.

Paul C. Voltz was selected as temporary president of the league and Paul Kelly, Cornwallis, as chosen temporary secretary. The following clubs will be contacted before the next meeting to ascertain whether or not they are going into the league: St. Charles of Cornwallis, Edgely, Tullytown, and St. Luke's, of Croydon.

It is the plan of the managers and directors of the teams to revise the rules and regulations and also appoint an arbitration board to help settle their disputes.

The mortgages under the FHA will extend over a 15 year term.

Messrs. Otto Grupp, Jr., and Hugh B. Eastburn are developing the tract for the owner, according to an announcement by the agents.

Arrangements have already been made for extension of Bristol borough water to the site, states Mr. Eastburn, and the houses will have all conveniences, it is stated.

They are to be erected of cinder blocks, and will have garages attached. The structures are to be located on plots of ground measuring from 60x125 feet to one acre or more.

Contract for the first house is now being negotiated.

The prices of the homes, it is stated, will range from $2600 to $2850.

Help Promote Safety — Dim Your Lights When Passing.

IN OTHER, blunter words, why be satisfied to trail?

Why buy a car that's content to follow along—when little, if any, more money will put you in a Buick up where the banners are flying?

For as five minutes on any busy street corner will show you, this year's automotive style pattern was cut by Buick a good twelve months ago.

This year's performance tempo was set two years back when the Buick Dynaflex engine appeared.

And this year's comfort standards still have some catching up to do to equal Buick's combination of four coil springs, recoil-mounted Knee-Action, the SUPER's five-foot front seat room and Foamtex cushions.

Eventually, perhaps, others may find a way to micropoise-balance engines after assembly in search of Buick's present silky smoothness.

They may get around to making Two-Way Direction Signals standard equipment instead of extras; they may heavy-up their frames, and generally seek to equal Buick's staunchness.
